Scope and Contents:

The papers of Elisha Porter are divided into two groups, those produced during the years of the Revolutionary War, and those produced before or after the war. The items produced during wartime will be given a near item level account, while those produced outside of the war will be given a broader account.

Eleazer Porter's papers consist of writs, orders, summonses, receipts, and invoices from 1761-1793. The papers deal with his positions as a Justice of the Peace, and a Judge. There are little personal papers. Folders are arranged by type of material, and then by date.
